

GET OUT AND GO: FIND A COZY HIDEAWAY

By Mary Ann Rozance on December 28, 2012

Like hibernating bears, Seattleites use the winter months to catch up on rest over lazy pajama weekends. Vacation rentals offer affordable travel for large groups, allowing you to cook your own food and spend quality time with your friends or family while exploring a new area. Gather your favorite books, movies and games and plan the ultimate veg fest by renting a cabin in one of Washington's beautiful natural places.

Go on a clam dig and spend the weekend in an ocean front cabin at the Iron Springs Resort on Copalis Beach. Recently renovated, the cabins have all of the modern luxuries so you and your friends can dig, clean, cook and eat your clamming bounty in style. If you are lucky, you will be there during a storm and can snuggle up by a fire all weekend.
